

GEOqik is a software company revolutionising document production using internet based applications. The internet is 'real time' and enables collaboration, increases accessibility and allows us to access information anywhere at any time. Whether you are reviewing documents or want a more cost effective and engaging method of publication, let GEOqik show you why the Internet is the most powerful and accessible form of information delivery available in the world today.

create

---

It all starts here. We all read, write and print.

However, document consistency can vary greatly within an organisation. GEOqik has smart software to clean, compress, compile, correct and style your content to meet uniform corporate standards. We ensure content is well prepared regardless of whether you are digital printing, offset printing or publishing online.

review

---

Producing quality documentation is a collaborative process which takes time and commitment. Often the document review process is identified as a 'road block' as participants deal with multiple files, versions and formats.

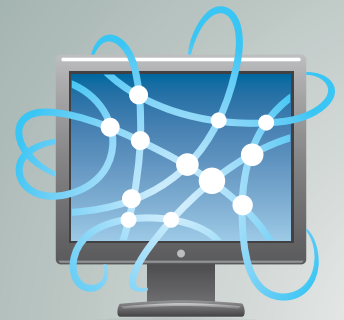

Our PleaseReview software can reduce review timescales by 65% because the document is reviewed online. Everyone sees the same document and work on it simultaneously! Less duplication, less review cycles and there is only one document for the author to accept / reject comments and proposed changes.

publish

---

Forget trying to read scanned documents or downloading large PDF's online. Our qikPRESS software is a revolution in publishing documents on the Internet. qikPRESS is easy to read, full of features and fast regardless of the number of pages.

qikPRESS is incredibly customisable from a design perspective as well as content, e.g., multi-media. It's ideal for the online publication of scientific documents, regulatory reports, annual reports, financial statements, health and safety standards, policy documents and much more.

engage

---

Do you have a publication that requires stakeholder engagement? Is it part of a regulatory review process? Is it important to capture comments? Is there a public submission process?

Whatever your requirements qikPRESS offers a truly engaging medium to interact with stakeholders and receive consistent, consolidated feedback.

Producing a quality document is a collaborative process which takes time and commitment. Yet the co-authoring and review process is frequently identified as the 'road block' in smooth document creation or update. Do you recognise this process?

PleaseReview will make document creation less painful, more efficient and significantly reduce time and effort. PleaseReview is a revolution because the review takes place in an Internet Browser.

features

- ✓ Everyone sees the same document and work on it simultaneously
- ✓ Everyone see each other's comments and proposed changes (removing duplication of effort)
- ✓ Review owners get a single document with all consolidated comments and proposed changes.
- ✓ Email is used for notification (not for distributing documents)
- ✓ Simple point and click user environment

benefits

- ✓ Less time spent by staff on each review (65% of elapsed time)
- ✓ Fewer review cycles, fewer document revisions
- ✓ Fewer mistakes, e.g., commenting on the wrong document and much more...

Contact GEOqik to take the pain out of your next major project.